Scouts earn merit badges

Members of Boy Scout Troop 166, Bexley, participated in Nagatamen Junior Leader Training and Falling Rock Boy Scout Camps last month.

A total of 18 scouts attended one or both of these camps, earning a total of 56 Merit Badges for their efforts.

Scouts and the badges they earned include: Daniel Bahls — camping, cooking, orienteering, pioneering and swimming; Timothy Bahls — first aid, metalwork and swimming; Mark Bardwell — camping, canoeing, environmental science and wilderness survival; Sam Brosius — first aid, metalwork and swimming; Frankie Cleary — emergency preparedness, Indian lore and rowing; Peter Fenimore — first aid, leatherwork, metalwork and swimming; Ross Fenimore — safety; Steven Jackson — swimming; Ben Larrimer — first aid, metalwork, rowing and swimming; Robbie Novak — environmental science, first aid, lifesaving, mammal study and reptile study; David Powell — camping, environmental science and soil and water conservation; Pat Reis — first aid, metalwork and swimming; Zach Reis — first aid, metal-work and swimming; Dance Robbins — first aid, metalwork and swimming; Eric Robbins — camping, environmental science, first aid, Indian lore and swimming; Daniel Ruccia — first aid, metalwork and swimming; Josh Stein — mammal study; Mussie Teklezghi — first aid and metalwork.

In addition, Ross Fenimore became the first John K. Pfahl Fellow in a ceremony at Nagatamen.

The fellowship recognizes a Nagatamen staffer who exemplifies the Scout Oath and Law and is a leader on the staff. The fellowship will also provide scholarship money in the future for participants in the Nagatamen Junior Leader Training Program.

The fellowship is named for the late John K. Pfahl, the Simon Kenton Council's first Distinguished Eagle Scout.
